

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
1 Overview: The Ten Principles	1
Fox and Hedgehog: Many Things vs. One Big Thing	2
The Ten Principles	3
The Craft of Job Training	5
2 How Practitioners and Policymakers Improved the Job Training World—and What Challenges Lie Ahead	7
Part 1: Meeting Past Employment Challenges	8
Part 2: Meeting Today’s Employment Challenges	14
Government Should Build on the Strengths of Low-Income Families and Communities	21
3 Principle One—The Unemployment Rate: A Strong Private Economy Does Far More to Reduce Unemployment Than Any Government Program	25
First Truth: The Best Employment Program Is a Strong Economy	26
Second Truth: An Enormous Job Creation Goes On through Good Times and Bad	32
Third Truth: State and Local Governments Can Affect the State Unemployment Rate	34
4 Principle Two—Job Training: Build on the Market Orientation of Effective Job Training Programs to Build an Effective Job Training System	39
Part 1: How the Current Job Training System Emerged over the Past 40 Years	39
Part 2: Elements of Effective Job Training Programs	41
Part 3: Building an Effective Job Training System	45
Part 4: What Can We Expect of an Effective Job Training System?	51
Part 5: The Relation between Job Training and the Unemployment Rate	54

5	Principle Three—The Working Poor: A Big Part of the Conventional Wisdom on the Working Poor Being in Dead End Jobs is False—but Not All	59
	Part 1: Wage and Job Mobility	60
	Part 2: Important Low-Wage Workforces and the Limited Wage/Skill Advancement within These Workforces	67
6	Principle Four—Building Career Ladders for the Working Poor: Designing Effective Career Ladders Requires Single- and Multiemployer Skills Upgrading	73
	Career Ladders Span Sectors and Take Several Forms	73
	Part 1: Single-Employer Career Ladders	76
	Designing Effective Single-Employer Career Ladders	85
	Part 2: Multiemployer Career Ladders	86
	Designing Effective Multiemployer Career Ladders	93
	Part 3: The Agricultural Career Ladders That Didn’t Develop	95
7	Principle Five—Maintaining Career Ladders for the Working Poor: Sustaining Effective Career Ladders Means Influencing the Structure and Craft of Jobs	105
	Part 1: Linking Career Ladders of the Workforce System with Community Colleges and Joint Labor-Management Trust Funds	106
	Part 2: Influencing the Structure of Jobs, not Just the Skills of Workers	112
	Part 3: The Professionalization of the Low Wage Workforce	119
8	Principle Six—Welfare Reform: Build on the Success of Welfare Reform with Targeted Postemployment Strategies	127
	Part 1: How the 1996 Welfare Reform Changed Welfare in California	127
	Part 2: Designing Postemployment Services to Increase Job Retention and Skills	133
	Economic Self-Sufficiency for Welfare Recipients through Nontraining Approaches	148
9	Principle Seven—Workers with Disabilities: A New World of Employment Exists	151
	Part 1: The High Unemployment and SSI Use among Workers with Disabilities Today	152

Part 2: Designing Employment Programs for Workers with Disabilities	157
Part 3: The Role of Family and Friends in Inclusion	174
10 Principle Eight—Technology Jobs: The Emerging “New Technician” Jobs Provide an Important Niche Training Market	179
Part 1: The Dot-Com Employment Boom and Bust	180
Part 2: The Future of Technology Jobs, Especially in Non-IT Firms, and the Place of Technology Jobs as a Training Niche	185
11 Principle Nine—Affinity Groups: The Best Antipoverty Efforts Go Beyond Government Programs	197
Part 1: The Idea Behind the Family Independence Initiative and Its Nongovernmental Approach	197
Part 2: FII Identifies Four Affinity Groups Based on Ethnicity	199
Part 3: The Affinity Groups Pursue Different Economic Strategies	201
Part 4: Preliminary FII Impact	203
Part 5: FII in the Context of New Economic Self-Sufficiency Initiatives Nationwide	208
Part 6: Project Update—How FII Has Fared over the Past Two Years	213
12 Principle Ten—Globalization: The Job Training Professional Assumes a Greater Role in a World of Globalization, Competition, and Outsourcing	217
Globalization and Employment	218
From Typewriter Repair to the New Economy	224
The Community of Practitioners	225
Appendix A: Heading a State Employment Service	229
Appendix B: The Employment Development Department	233
References	243
The Author	255
Index	257
About the Institute	273

Figures

2.1	A Comparison of California and U.S. Teen Birthrates Age 15–19 (per 1,000 females) and CalWORKs’ Annual Average Monthly Caseload, 1991–2001	13
2.2	Ratio of Income of Families in 75th Percentile to Income of Families in 25th Percentile, California and Rest of the United States, 1969–1999	18
3.1	Unemployment Rate in California, 1971–2002 (% , annual by average)	27
3.2	Unemployment Rates by Education Level (% , men and women age 25 and over)	29
3.3	Real Hourly Wages of Men Age 16 and Over (2001 $)	29
3.4	Poverty Rates for Californians by Race, 1991–2001	31
3.5	California Job Creation and Destruction by Quarter, 1999–2001 (in millions of jobs)	32
3.6	U.S. and California Monthly Unemployment Rates, January 1993–February 2003 (%)	35
5.1	Share of 1988 Workers Who Left Their Initial Industry by 2000	63
5.2	Certified Nurse Assistant Employee Retention Rates	69
5.3	Certified Nurse Assistant Licensing Survival Rate (1995–2001)	69
6.1	Some of the Career Ladder Pathways in the Kaiser Permanente Acute Care Setting	78
6.2	Part of a Hotel Job Structure, Showing Numerous Mobility Paths and Approximate Salary Ranges	82
7.1	Five Steps in Forming New Intermediate Job Categories between CNA and LVN	114
8.1	AFDC/CalWORKs Program Monthly Caseload and State Unemployment Rate (July 1974–July 2005)	128
8.2	One-Parent Leavers: Percentage on Cash Aid by Month from Exit	130
9.1	Trends in Employment among Working Age Men and Women with Work Limitation-Based Disabilities	153
9.2	Employment Rates for Workers with Disabilities, 1980–2000 (%)	155
9.3	SSI Caseloads by Age Group, 1974–2001	157

9.4	Disability Benefit Rolls and Employment Rates among Working-Age Men and Women with Disabilities	158
10.1	Monthly Unemployment Rates in California and the Santa Clara and San Francisco MSAs, January 1997–February 2003 (%)	183
10.2	The Los Angeles Regional IT Career Ladder System	192
11.1	Income, Net Worth, and Savings Increases for FII Participants for the 12–18 Months Following Program Enrollment	204

Tables

5.1	Absolute and Relative Mobility for a Sample of California Workers, 1988–2000 (%)	61
5.2	Earnings Distribution of California Workers in Each Industry, by Quintile, in 1988	62
5.3	Real Earnings Growth for Industry-Stayers and Industry-Leavers, 1988–2000	64
6.1	Results of Career Ladders for Lower-Wage Workers Sponsored by Kaiser Permanente and the Shirley Ware Education Center (SEIU Local 250)	80
6.2	Seven Cases of Worker Advancement for Individual Trainees Who Completed Rim Hospitality’s Career Ladder Training	84
6.3	CNA to LVN Career Ladders	89
6.4	HERE Unions’ Pilot Career Ladder Projects, 2002	91
6.5	HERE Career Ladders for Workers Reduced to Part-Time Status, 2003	92
6.6	The Craft of Farmwork: Skills in Pruning Table Grapes	98
6.7	FIELD’s Career Ladder Training for Farmworkers, 2002–2003	99
7.1	Purposes and Results of CAHF Skills Upgrading	117
8.1	Family Earnings and Employment of CalWORKs Leavers from 2003 Survey	131
8.2	Riverside Employment Retention and Advancement Project: Impacts on Quarter 3 Earnings, Employment, TANF, and Food Stamps among Those Randomly Assigned, January–June 2002	145

9.1	Department of Rehabilitation “Jobs for All” Consumers, May 2000–March 2003	161
10.1	Employment at Selected Silicon Valley Technology Firms, 1999 and 2002	184
10.2	Technology Employment in California, 2002 and 2010 (projected)	186
10.3	Selected Technology Jobs in California, 2002 and 2010 (projected)	189
11.1	The Economic Value of Social Capital: How an FII Family Achieves Savings with Official Income below the Self- Sufficiency Standard (all columns in $)	208

Photographs

B.1	State Free Employment Bureau—Los Angeles (1920s)	235
B.2	First UI checks issued by California governor Frank Merriam (1938)	236
B.3	Unemployment Insurance/Job Service (1948)	237
B.4	EDD representative with grower—Coachilla Valley (1950s)	238
B.5	EDD staff at their trailer office	239