

Contents

1 Introduction	1
Susan Houseman W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research
Machiko Osawa Japan Women's University
2 The Change in Work Arrangements in Denmark and Germany	15
Edeltraud Hoffmann and Ulrich Walwei Institute for Employment Research, Nuremberg
3 Regulatory Convergence?	53
Colette Fagan and Kevin Ward University of Manchester
4 Nonstandard Work in Italy and Spain	89
Inmaculada Cebrián University of Alcalá
Gloria Moreno University of Alcalá
Manuela Samek Instituto per la Ricerca Sociale, Milan
Renata Semenza University of Milan and Instituto per la Ricerca Sociale, Milan
Luis Toharia University of Alcalá
5 Nonstandard Work Arrangements in France and the United States	131
Françoise Carré University of Massachusetts–Boston
6 The Growth of Nonstandard Employment in Japan and the United States	175
Susan Houseman W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research
Machiko Osawa Japan Women's University

7 Employment Choices and Pay Differences between Nonstandard and Standard Work in Britain, Germany, the Netherlands, and Sweden	215
Siv Gustafsson Eiko Kenjoh Cécile Wetzels University of Amsterdam
8 Standard and Nonstandard Work Arrangements, Pay Difference, and Choice of Work by Japanese Mothers	267
Nobuko Nagase Ochanomizu University
9 Work Arrangements among Women in the United States	307
Naomi Cassirer University of Notre Dame
10 In Search of a New Framework for Flexibility	351
Isabelle Schömann Klaus Schömann WZB Social Science Research Center
11 Nonstandard Work Arrangements in Japan and the United States	389
Noriaki Kojima and Keiko Fujikawa Osaka University
12 Work Attitudes and Nonstandard Work Arrangements in the United States, Japan, and Europe	423
Arne L. Kalleberg University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Jeremy Reynolds University of Georgia
The Authors	477
Index	479
About the Institute	513