

Contents

1 Introduction	1
Part 1: A Global Perspective
2 Economic Performance and Unemployment	9
Economic Performance Indicators	11
A Sample of Large Countries	12
Descriptive Information for 150 Countries in 1999	12
Macroeconomic Performance Indicators, 1970–1995	17
Unemployment as a Macroeconomic Indicator	22
Labor Force Surveys	25
Full Employment	36
The Linkage between Output Growth and Employment Growth	38
Summary	41
3 Unemployment Protection	45
Deferred Compensation and Unemployment Protection	46
Prevalence of Unemployment Compensation, 1949–1999	52
Economic Development and Unemployment Compensation	55
The Cost of Unemployment Compensation	59
Cost Analysis for Selected Countries	63
The Changing Mix of Beneficiaries: UI versus UA	72
Summary	74
Part 2: Regional Aspects of Unemployment Protection
4 Unemployment Compensation in the OECD-20 Countries	81
Labor Market Indicators	83
The Evolution of Unemployment	88
Germany	92
Four OECD-20 Countries with Low Unemployment	96
Expenditures on Active Labor Market Measures	99
Summary	105
5 Unemployment Compensation in the CEE-FSU Countries	109
CEE-FSU Unemployment	110
Unemployment Protection Arrangements	115
Bulgaria and Russia: Two Short Stories	119
Summary	123

6 Unemployment Compensation in East and South Asia	127
Overview of the Labor Market	128
UC Reciprocity in Asia	133
The Korean Experience	136
Summary	142
7 Unemployment Compensation in Latin America and Caribbean Countries	145
UC Programs: Prevalence, Reciprocity Rates and Replacement Rates	146
Issues in UI Administration	150
Other Support for the Unemployed	153
Chile's New UI Program	157
Summary	164
Part 3: Problem Areas for Unemployment Compensation Programs
8 Three Problem Areas for Unemployment Compensation Programs	169
Coverage	171
Continuing Eligibility	190
Unemployment Duration and UC Benefit Duration	196
Summary	209
9 Conclusion	213
Appendix A: Labor Market Data for 150 Large Countries	219
Appendix B: Output Changes and Employment Changes	227
Appendix C: Regression Estimates of UC Benefit Generosity	233
Appendix D: UC Provisions and UC Costs in CEE-FSU Countries	235
Appendix E: Determinants of Long-Term Unemployment Percentages	245
References	253
The Authors	259
Index	261
About the Institute	273

Figures

3.1	Unemployment Compensation Benefit-Cost Rates for Selected Countries in the 1990s	67
3.2	Unemployment Compensation Replacement Rates and Reciprocity Rates for Selected Countries in the 1990s	70
4.1	Weighted Mean and Median Average Unemployment Rates, 19 OECD Countries, 1959–2001	89
4.2	Unemployment Rates for Seven OECD Countries, 1959–2001	91
7.1	UI Replacement Rates in Brazil, Chile, and Uruguay	149
8.1	Long-Term Unemployment Percentages, 1968–2001	198
8.2	Countries with High Long-Term Unemployment, 1983–2001	199

Tables

2.1	Major Countries, by Region, in 1999, and Selected Regional Characteristics	13
2.2	Average Inflation Rates and Real GDP Growth Rates in Six Regions, 1970–1995	19
2.3	Average Population Growth Rates and Real Per-Capita GDP Growth Rates in Six Regions, 1970–1995	21
2.4	Number of Independent Countries, by Major Geographic Area, 1949–1999	26
2.5	Countries with Labor Force Surveys, 1949–1999	27
2.6	Average Unemployment Rates, by Region, 1980s and 1990s	33
2.7	Regression Analysis of Presence and Ongoing Use of Labor Force Surveys	35
2.8	Regression Analysis of Employment Response Coefficients in OECD-20 and East and South Asian Countries	39
3.1	Growth of Unemployment Compensation Programs, 1949–1999	53
3.2	Regression Results for Presence and Adoption of Unemployment Compensation, 1949–1999	56
3.3	Unemployment Compensation Costs in Selected Countries during the 1990s	65
3.4	UA Share of Beneficiaries in Mixed UI-UA Systems	73
4.1	Selected Labor Market Indicators for OECD-20 Countries, 1990s	84
4.2	Regression Results for Percentage of Expenditures on Active Measures, 19 OECD Countries	102
5.1	Unemployment Rates and Unemployment in CEE-FSU Countries, 1994–2001	111
6.1	Summary Characteristics of Asian Economies and Labor Markets	129
6.2	Unemployment Rates and UC Reciprocity Rates for Four Asian Countries, 1990–2001	134
8.1	Average Employment Shares, by Region, in 2000	174
8.2	Regression Analysis of Employment Shares, by Region, in 2000	176

8.3	Aspects of UI Coverage in Selected Countries, 1960–2000	180
8.4	Effects of Changes in Minimum Firm Size on Coverage, Korea and Thailand	184
A.1	Measurement of Unemployment, Unemployment Rates, Registered Unemployment, and Unemployment Compensation	220
B.1	Regressions Explaining Employment Growth on OECD-20 and East and South Asian Countries, 1971–2000	228
C.1	Regression Estimates of Benefit Generosity ( $G$ )	234
D.1	Summary of Unemployment Protection Provisions in CEE-FSU Countries, 1991–2001	236
D.2	Summary of Unemployment Protection Costs in Four CEE-FSU Countries	240
E.1	Regression Results Explaining the Percent Unemployed 12 or More Months in OECD-20 Countries	247
E.2	Regression Results Explaining Changes in the Percent Unemployed 12 or More Months in OECD-20 Countries	250